M'ADOO SMOTHERS FORD BY TWO TO ONE VOTE AT SOUTH DAKOTA POLLS

Proponents of Former Secretary of State Are Active in Work of Forming Platform in South Dakota Which They Hope to Carry in National Presidential Contest.

(By Associated Press). SIOUX FALLS, South Dakota, Nov. 21.—Claiming better than a two-to-one victory in the county proposal conventions over the sponsors of the state-wide presidential convention in behalf of Henry Ford, supporters of William G. McAdoo today began work on the state platform which they hope may be carried into the national arena by their candidate. Returns today from counties representing approximately three-fourths of the state's voting power, gave McAdoo forces 30,000 votes in the state convention against less than 10,000 for the Ford men, according to leaders in the two campaigns.

JIM KURTEN, BRAZOS COUNTY BOY, GIVEN TRIP FOR HIS WORK

County Agent C. L. Beason stated that he was feeling blue all day Tuesday, meditating over the fact that the club boys in the Santa Fe contest had not commenced sooner on their reports, thus giving greater promise of victory when their work would be compared with the scores of other boys from over Texas. But the gloom and fear were dispelled when the County Agent opened his mail and found the following information from S. C. Evans, Boys' Club Agent, Extension Service, A. and M. College of Texas: "Dear Mr. Beason: This is to advise you that Jim Kurten of Kurten, Texas, was one of the winners of the Santa Fe trip to Chicago and will receive definite instructions as to the trip some time between now and the last of the month. STERLING EVANS, Boys' Club Agent."

Jim Kurten belongs to the Kurten boys' and girls' club, and is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kurten of the Kurten community. All club boys and girls of Brazos county will be glad to know that one of their number has won this great trip. All should remember that even greater things are in store for club members in the future.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Couch of Goose Creek and Mr. John Couch of Barton will be the guests of their sister, Miss Louise Couch, next week to enjoy the big football game at A. and M. College.

ONLY EDUCATION CAN PRESERVE OUR CIVILIZATION--PRES. BIZZELL

The expenditure of Texas and the American nation for education is not going to be decreased and must be materially increased if the American people are to pass on to their posterity and to the broken-down civilization of Europe the civilization they have inherited and improved, said Dr. W. B. Bizzell before the Lions Club at noon luncheon Tuesday. The meeting was presided over by Rev. W. N. Sholl, the singing was led by Rev. R. L. Brown, and brief remarks by County Superintendent D. J. McDonald and R. V. Armstrong, president of the Lions, on education, the subject for the day, concluded the program. Dr. Bizzell was made an honorary member of recognition of his services to the community on motion of Tom Suber.

Dr. Bizzell said, in part: "When future historians come to write of America I believe they will set down to the credit of this country the perfection and carrying out of the first workable plan of democracy. The task which confronts America now is to preserve and transmit the civilization we have inherited and developed. America is the one nation which can possibly transmit that civilization. But if we transmit a workable democracy we must disseminate it among our people. I have no faith in the future of our democracy unless we can make our schools transmit this education."

Educational Fallacies.

"There are a number of fallacies now current concerning education. One of these was embodied in a bill recently introduced in the Texas legislature which required that every student in a state institution of higher learning should pay tuition fees approximately what it costs the state to educate him. Such a law would restrict educational opportunity and develop an educational aristocracy. Of 2,100 boys at A. and M. this year fully 700 are working their way through, wholly or partly. It is a fallacy to take the stand that it is not the function of the state to provide education for its youth beyond the high school. Yet in the conference of executives of land grant colleges which I recently attended there was not a man there who did not report some of that

(By Associated Press). YONKERS, N. Y., Nov. 21.—Mayor Walter Tausig was found today in a garage behind his home, a revolver near him. He was taken to a hospital where he died from a bullet wound believed by the police to have been self-inflicted.

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY AIDS HEALTH NURSE WITH SUM OF MONEY

The Parent-Teachers Association of Bryan has received from the Woman's Auxiliary of the First Presbyterian church a cash donation of $27.25 to be added to the fund for the public health nurse. With the donation came words of encouragement from the Presbyterian women for the health work, and the assurance that in no other channel can more good be done than in up-building physically the girls and boys of our town and county, the citizenship of the future. This gift from the Presbyterian women is doubly appreciated at this time as the Parent-Teachers Association is striving to get its quota of the money for the county health work all in hand before attempting other activities for the benefit of the school children of the city.

TEXAS CONFERENCE CORDIALLY GREETED IN CAMERON TODAY

(By H. L. Millis, Staff Correspondent, Houston Post). CAMERON, Tex., Nov. 21.—A spirit of old-time Southern hospitality marked the reception of the Methodist arriving in Cameron Tuesday afternoon for the 84th annual session of the Texas conference, which opened formally at 9 a. m. Wednesday with Bishop John M. Moore of Dallas presiding. When Santa Fe trains, which might appropriately have been designated Methodist specials, reached the station here the visitors alighting found scores of automobiles congesting the station square with the hosts and hostesses awaiting to take their guests direct to their homes.

This personal welcome to the delegates is something new in the entertainment of conferences, Cameron people, without regard to religious affiliation, are joining in entertaining the visitors, and instead of entrusting the welcome to a committee, came en masse to greet the delegates, with the pastor of the Methodist church taking the lead in introducing the guests to their hosts. It was said there was an automobile at the station for every delegate who arrived and some cars went away empty because there were not enough visitors to go around. Cameron reception has called for the expressions of praise and appreciation from the visitors generally.

During the afternoon the members of the conference inspected the beautiful new Methodist church just completed a few months ago. Expressions of surprise at its magnificence and splendid arrangement were many, and the builder, Rev. Ira F. Key, was the recipient of congratulations from scores of visitors. The building's interior is finished in gray and compares favorably with the city temple in Dallas, one of the modern type church edifices in Texas.

The building here cost $100,000 and is said to be the finest in the conference outside the big cities. Bishop Moore and the cabinet went into session today to consider appointments. Dr. Paul B. Kern, dean of the theological department of the Southern Methodist university, preached the opening sermon last night to a great congregation.

MATYSIAK-BRANDESKI

In the presence of many friends and relatives, William Matysiak and Miss Angelina Brandeski were married at 9 o'clock this morning in St. Joseph's church. Rev. J. B. Gleissner officiating. The nuptial mass was celebrated by Rev. P. Litwora during which the children's choir sang hymns. The young couple will reside on a farm near Smetana.

THEY ALL WILL BE HERE

From inquiries being received about the Thanksgiving game, one would think that everybody is coming. San Antonio people are writing to know the best automobile route. Superintendent W. W. Lackey of the Midland schools, wires County Agent C. L. Beason to secure seats for himself and—well perhaps he just wants to be sure of having enough room.

WEST TEXAS AFTER DR. W. B. BIZZELL SAYS SEN. BLEDSOE

Dr. W. B. Bizzell, president of Texas A. and M. College, is being urged to accept the presidency of the Texas Technological College at Lubbock, according to the admission of Senator W. H. Bledsoe, who visited the Eagle office today. Senator Bledsoe, in company with A. B. Spencer, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, and C. E. Magden, banker and A. and M. graduate of Lubbock, were here to urge this office on Dr. Bizzell, it developed. The three men stopped here en route to Houston where they go to be at the Texas Tech board Thursday. It was largely due to the efforts of Senator Bledsoe that the bill creating the Technological College was passed. "Dr. Bizzell is one of the biggest men in Texas and even in the United States," Senator Bledsoe remarked, "we recognize his ability and we want him for the president of our new college."

BORISKE GROWS SATSUMA

There is the Eagle office a fine specimen of Satsuma orange grown on the farm of John A. Boriske one mile west of town this season which those who know South Texas Satsumas say is as good as any grown in that section. He has two such trees and they are bearing at the age of three years.

JUDGE LINDSEY FIRST TO ADVOCATE FEDERAL LONG TIME CREDITS

(Special to Bryan Daily Eagle). COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Nov. 21.—First efforts for a well defined system of rural credits in the South were claimed by Judge S. A. Lindsey, citizen of Tyler and director of the Houston Federal Farm Loan Bank in a talk delivered to the Social Science Seminar Monday evening in the Physics Building. He prefaced his talk with individual interpretations of economic precepts and then drew conclusions on the relations of these precepts to credit, all leading up to his discussion of recent legislation affecting rural credits in the United States.

Need of Long Credit.

He encompassed the idea that the rural producers were in need of longer time credit than distributing agencies of the towns and cities in a paper delivered at the A. and M. College of Texas in 1912, he said. And later this paper was printed by a farmers' organization and also by the State legislature. It was, he thought, the first definite step toward the establishment of the Federal Land Banks. Resulting from the widespread publicity which followed his deliverance he was made a member of the commission sent to Europe the same year to study rural credit agencies on the continent of Europe and make recommendations for the incorporation of a law into the canons of the nations by which agricultural producers could have credit extending over a period of time sufficient to enable them to pay land, livestock and equipment for farms and ranches.

At Budapest the commission of which he was a member found a system of credit for agricultural and livestock producers which later became the law in America on recommendation of the commission and of which the Federal Land Banks of the nation are the working parts. On investigation of the system in Hungary they found that after 40 years of operation the law had proved its perfection for meeting the emergency for which it was created to deal, having provided money at a low rate of interest to farmers and livestockmen, one million in number, with only three foreclosures and no loss.

Success Is Shown.

Its success in meeting the need of farmers and stockmen in this State was shown in his statement that the Federal Land Bank of Houston since it was organized in 1917 has paid back all of the original stock of $750,000 provided by the government for beginning operation has paid $905,000 to stockholders as interest on the stock which each borrower is required to take in the bank when he is given a loan and now had on hand $500,000 in surplus. He said there had been only 11 foreclosures and no losses. Lack of losses is due to the fact that loans are made only to the amount of 50 per cent of the appraised valuation. He also said that of all loans outstanding only one-third of one per cent were on the delinquent list, regarding periodical payments.

From his explanation of the beginning of rural credit legislation Judge Lindsey progressed to explanations of all rural credit legislation during and since the World War, including the Warehouse Act, the War Finance Corporation, the International Banking Corporation and the Intermediate Credits Act.

Judge Lindsey spent Monday and the larger part of yesterday as a visitor on the campus, being a guest in the home of Dr. O. M. Ball. He was introduced Tuesday by Dr. Ball as one of the outstanding contributors to the material and spiritual development of the State and nation. Judge Lindsey addressed several classes of economics students Monday and Tuesday.

Mrs. J. B. Bagley of College was among the visitors in Bryan today.

COACH DOG STEWART TAKES AGGIE DEFEAT WITH GRAIN OF SALT

(By A. W. von Struve, Austin American)

"This Rice 7 to 6 victory over the Texas Aggies doesn't fool me at all," said Coach Doc Stewart of the Longhorns last night when the score of the Owl-Farmer contest at Houston was made known to him. That was all he would say for publication but the look in his eye told volumes more. "When the Aggies play Texas they play miles over their head and if Texas can learn to do that" was a suggestive observation the coach made a moment later.

Look Out Turkey Day.

It would not be fair to the school spirit of the Aggies to say that they did not try to win from Rice. But it is evident from the score that the Aggies did not play their best, they did not have their whole soul in the game as they will have in the contest with the Longhorns on Turkey Day. All the defeats of the season, their woeful record against Baylor, S. M. U. and Rice can be salvaged to an almost painless memory if the Aggies can only beat Texas.

Aggies Working Hard.

From Sport Editor Bob Bennett of San Antonio, who has just returned from a three-day sojourn at College Station, it is learned that the Aggies are working "very" hard for the game with Texas on Thanksgiving day. Coach Bible's weakest spot is at quarterback according to Bennett. Knickerbocker, who played like a flash last year in his few appearances, has fallen down miserably this year. In fact he is rated at the bottom of gridiron field general of the state this year.

Grip on Quarter.

Knickerbocker's failure at quarter gives basis to the report that Grip, substitute quarter for the Aggies, will operate against the Longhorns on Thanksgiving Day. Grip has played against Texas before and he has been member of a team that defeated Texas. It was seven years ago, when Rice took the Longhorns to a 16 to 0 trimming, the first and only time in the Owls' football experience. Grip played on that team and he was one of the boys that made it hard for Texas.

Johnson Going Good.

Captain "Bull" Johnson, of the Aggies, is still as good as he was last year, only better, if reports from those who have seen him in action this year are halfway correct. He is the boy who was responsible more than any other member of the Farm team last year for the Longhorns' defeat. The Longhorns' over confidence did the rest.

Sooners Not So Bad.

Talking about over-confidence Coach Stewart is using harsh methods on his proteges to keep them from becoming exposed to this disease so fatal on the gridiron. Coach Bridges of the Baylor Bears and his cohorts contributed the anti-toxin with which "Doc" is inoculating his proteges. Coach Benny Owners' Sooners helped out yesterday afternoon when they garnered those two touchdowns off the Longhorns on forward passes.

Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Fountain and Mr. and Mrs. J. Sidney Smith have returned from a visit to their daughters, Miss Mary Lily Fountain and Miss Aline Smith, students at Baylor College, Belton.

"KILL 'EM IN '23 AND MISS 'EM IN '24" IS THE NEW ANTI-BOLL WEEVIL WAR CRY

(Special to Bryan Daily Eagle). COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 19.—"Kill 'em in '23 and miss 'em in '24" is the shibboleth for action against the boll weevil being passed out to the human opponents of the "billion dollar bug" by R. R. Reppert, A. and M. College Extension Entomologist. "Destroy the cotton stalks, the hibernation quarters of the gluttonous pest through the winter months and be confident of reducing the numbers of the pest that will trouble next year with every stalk uprooted before the first killing frost." KEEPING MONEY AT HOME

Some years ago when a member of the Eagle force was a commercial secretary in a West Texas town he went in to the advertising manager of a large department store there to talk with him about means of inducing people to do more trading at home and less with mail order houses. After some conversation, this advertising manager said: "You can talk all you want to about getting people to trade at home but they will not do all their trading with home merchants until these merchants keep in stock what the people want and let them know that it is there." The advertising manager had summed up the whole solution in one sentence. No one who goes to the Bryan post office at a time when parcel post package inward bound are in sight can fail to be impressed with the large number of them there. One clerk in the post office has given out the information that parcel post packages received in Bryan have doubled in number several times in the past few years. Why is this? It all goes back to the first statement: There are too many merchants in Bryan who do not keep what the people want and many others do not tell the public by advertising what they have. The illustration: A lady of this town recently sought to buy a coat for a small boy. She was informed that there are no overcoats in Bryan for boys younger than ten years. Now, who do the parents of boys between two and ten years old do when they want overcoats for their boys? Very naturally, they send out of town for them. It might be said with good reason that to keep overcoats for such small boys in stock would not be profitable. Probably it would not. But what is there to prevent a merchant from selling the coats by catalogue and wiring in the order? By doing so he would be keeping home money at home.

DOES ADVERTISING PAY?

A story which occurred in the Dallas Morning News of Thursday well illustrates whether advertisements are read. A man was followed home by a dog. This man, being somewhat tender-hearted, did not wish to kick the animal out into the alley to shift for himself so he advertised that if anyone wanted a dog that they might get one by calling him. The man relating the story afterwards did not say in what classification the ad was put but it probably was put in the "Pet Stock" section, which one would suppose would be read as little as any classification. But the advertiser relates that answers began to pour in at 7 o'clock in the morning and keep up until the middle of the week, though the ad appeared only once, Sunday morning. By Wednesday he had received 150 answer to that want-ad. At first the number of answers received was amusing to him, then it was annoying, and finally it got exasperating. After such an experience he did not doubt that folks read the ads. But if that man had advertised to sell that dog for ten dollars he probably would not have received a single answer and might have gone on his way believing that his ad was not read. Newspaper folks know that ads are read, and they never realize this more forcefully than when they make a small mistake in print, particularly if it is a mistake in a name. Then it seems as if every body in town had read and observed that one error.

In 1838, Henry Coleman, Commissioner of Agriculture in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, wrote: "The rewards of agricultural labor in Massachusetts are ample, in that an industrious man may obtain by skillful and active agriculture not only a comfortable subsistence, but his gains will prove so much more than his real and reasonable wants, that in ordinary circumstances he may early enjoy the satisfaction of a domestic connection, have the means of innocent and healthful luxury, raise and well educate a numerous family, exercise a generous hospitality, and lay up a competent provision against the casualties of human affairs and the decline of life. All this may be done in the exercise of a good conscience with a single pair of hands; and with no other than the joint aid of a loving and growing household; and in such cases the ever sure blessing of a kind Providence. It is on this account, then, that agriculture deserves every encouragement that the state can give. It is likewise an intimate connection with good morals and the support and purity of our republican institutions."

And there is no greater encouragement that the provision of good roads everywhere. Doubtless Coleman hoped for, in 1838, what we hope for now, "a paved United States in our day." His hope was doomed to disappointment. But this is 1923, not 1838. The United States has the money, the people, the votes, the engineers, the roads to improve. All that stands between us and that paved United States, which will indeed give to agriculture every encouragement the country and give, is inertia of the old idea, and the completion of the education of us all that what we want, need, must have, is national highways and good roads everywhere.

It is not too much to say that the need of civilization is the need of teachers. The contribution which they make to human welfare is beyond estimation.—Calvin Coolidge.

UNITED DAUGHTERS OF CONFEDERACY MEET AT HOME MRS. BUCHANAN

The November meeting of L. S. Ross Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, was held with the chapter president, Mrs. Albert Buchanan Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The largest attendance of the year was present and the outlined program for the local chapter, was entered into with renewed zeal. The session opened with the Lord's Prayer in concert by members, after which, the business of the day was taken up. Mrs. W. J. Higgs, who has served the chapter as secretary for the past fourteen years so efficiently and faithfully, was present and read the minutes of the October meeting, which were approved. Mrs. Higgs also read a full report of the Bryan chapter activities for the past year, showing in itemized form, the good that has been accomplished, in preserving the sacred history, songs and customs of the old South. In this busy present day living, we forget sometimes the treasures of the past, but when, as in the U. D. C. report read before the chapter on Friday, these facts are brought to mind, we live over again those days of valor, and our hearts respond again to the call of loyalty to "our beloved southland".

Treasurer Reports.

Mrs. J. B. Stevenson, treasurer, reported annual State dues, of $11.60, and general dues of $11.60 paid, also $1.00 each as annual dues to Texas Room and Texas Museum, making a total of $25.20. She also reported that the membership dues of $1.00 each being collected satisfactorily, mentioning that many out of town members had written letters of encouragement to the chapter, enclosing their $1.00 dues. Bills presented for flowers, and other small expenses of the chapter, were ordered paid. The chapter voted to send a cash donation of $5.00, and as much as could be collected, to the Stone Mountain monument, now being made near Atlanta, Ga. The figure of General Robert E. Lee on his famous horse, is the first being carved on this wonderful stone mountain, and the Daughters of the Confederacy, are anxious that it be completed by Lee's birthday, January 19th, when the event will be celebrated all over the South. The Bryan chapter hopes at that time to be able to make another contribution to this fund.

That the meetings of the chapter may accomplish more in historical work, and in preserving the old songs of the Confederacy, the chapter voted to prepare a book of programs for the year, including in a systematic way, these special items. Mrs. J. Webb Howell, chapter historian, who is serving her second year of usefulness in this very important office, makes the programs of the Bryan chapter, most interesting and helpful. The programs for the year, October to June is being prepared and will be published when completed.

Light Refreshments.

At the close of the business hour, the hostesses served a plate of salad, sandwiches, crackers, olives and hot tea.

Mrs. K. M. Thornton, a newly elected member of the chapter was present, and Mrs. H. E. Randolph, present as a visitor, both ladies being given a cordial welcome. Others present were: Mrs. J. Webb Howell, Mrs. J. A. Myers, Mrs. W. H. Cole, Mrs. Jim Dunn, Mrs. Harry McDowell, Mrs. J. B. Stevenson, Mrs. R. H. Harrison, Mrs. J. J. Higgs, Mrs. E. W. Crenshaw, Mrs. J. W. Dyer, Mrs. M. E. Weaver, of Weatherford, a former member was an appreciated visitor. The December meeting of the chapter will be held with Mrs. Harry McDowell, with Mrs. J. B. Dunn, Mrs. J. W. Cavitt, Mrs. W. J. Higgs and Mrs. J. L. Brock as joint hostesses.

BRAZOS COUNTY BOYS AND GIRLS CLUB DEPARTMENT

Club Notes and Farm News by County Agent C. L. Beason

Registration Not Sufficient.

The Southern Pacific Farm News quotes D. T. Simons, secretary and field manager of the Texas Jersey Cattle Club, as saying, among other things, "A registered animal only means that it has a known ancestry. If this ancestry is not of producing stock, lacks uniform type, then the progeny can not be expected to be satisfactory performers. One must go farther than just registration papers, look for the production and showing record of the dam, sire and other ancestors of the animal in question. Just because an animal is a registered animal should offer no immunity from the butcher's block if it doesn't deliver the goods."

Training in Youth.

"If you are going to do anything permanent for the average man, you must begin before he is a man. The chances for doing good lie in working with the boy, and not with the man."—Theodore Roosevelt.

Texas Did Better.

L. M. Busche tells in Capper's Farmer about an Adams county, Indiana, farmer raising a litter of pigs that weighed exactly a ton at six months old, but Mr. Busche ought to get the record of Vick Hill, a McLennan county, Texas, farmer who raised a litter of pigs that tipped the beam at 3,895 1-2 pounds at six months. Just another example of demonstrating to the world that Texas farmers can do anything when they make up their minds to do it, and this applies to Brazos county.

Boy Was Shrewd.

The Benchley boys' and girls' club enjoyed a fine luncheon Monday noon at the school building. Among the business transacted being the election of the following officers for the ensuing year: Johnnie Peyton, president; Wayne Wood, vice president; Effie Rice, secretary; Miss Hattie Haltom, adult club leader; Hugh Rice, youth leader. The new officers will be installed at a meeting in the near future, when the work of the present officers has been finished up. An amusing incident came up during the Benchley meeting Monday, when County Agent Beason took some ten or twelve boys to the home of Johnnie Peyton to give a lesson in poultry, calling special attention to characteristics of the Rhode Island Reds, and assisting the boys in picking out birds for the Brazos County Poultry Show, December 5-7. When County Agent Beason found an outstanding type of Rhode Island Red cockerel, he offered the club member, Johnnie Peyton, $2.50 for the bird. The boy refused the offer but frankly admitted that he had been offering his birds at $1 each. Here's betting a Jew's harp that the fellow who beats Johnnie Peyton with a Rhode Island Red cockerel will get a ribbon at the poultry show.

Remarkable Negro.

It is stated that Prof. George W. Carver, colored, son of a slave, and born in a Missouri shanty, has developed 116 by-products from the peanut, 98 from the pecan, and 165 from the sweet potato, and that these discoveries are "destined to change the economic life of the South." This scientist, working in Tuskegee Institute, refuses to be lured from his great work by glittering offers from the commercial world preferring, instead, that millions may be added to agriculture and other industries as well.

As the Banker Sees It.

The Southland Farmers gives the following editorial comment: There are some fundamentals in farming which all business men should be familiar. Success in farming is the basis of farm life. Good homes and modern labor saving devices are not a part of the unsuccessful farmer's equipment. Furthermore, the unsuccessful farmer is not buying the products of the factory and of industry.

A bank would not long succeed if it should continue to use its capital stock for running expenses. Neither will the farm. No matter how large the bank account at the start may be, it will not stand continual checking without the addition of deposits. The lamented Dr. C. G. Hopkins has well said that "the farmers of this country have been living not upon the interest from their investments, but upon their principal; and whatever measure of apparent prosperity they have had in favored localities has been largely taken from their capital stock. The boastful statement that the American land owner has become a scientific farmer is as erroneous as it is optimistic. Almost every effort by the American farmers has resulted in decreasing the fertility of the soil."

Soil Being Mined.
The banker who drives into the country and observes this process of mining the fertility from the land should feel that to that extent the resources of his bank are being sapped.

Three and four years ago some of the Southern bankers were "living in clover." I should say "cotton." Large crops with high prices brought in large sums of money. The farmers, business men and bankers all were happy. What happened in the two years following the high prices for cotton? To use a slang expression, all were "busted."

And yet some of our farmers are continuing to loan money to the one-crop farmer. I may be wrong, but I have a notion that when such a farmer comes around for a loan that the banker should make the loan the condition that he keep at least one cow, one sow and a couple dozen hens, at least enough livestock to feed his own family.

It was a surprise to me to find in one of our Southern states 20 per cent of the farms not producing a single egg, 37 per cent not raising even one lone chicken, and 36 per cent not having a single dairy cow. In another state, well adapted to the poultry industry, the annual importation of poultry products amounted to $19,000,000. In still another state I learned of one county in which there were located 1,000 farms and only 70 dairy cows. What does this mean? It means that agriculture is sick, production is unbalanced. Farmers are paying freight and other overhead charges on food products they ought to be raising at home.—H. T. Otis, Director Agr. Com., A. B. A.

Steele's Store Club Meeting.

At the club meeting at Steele's Store last Saturday night the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Tony Denena, president; Joe Degelia, vice president; Mary Bolmonski, secretary; John Degelia, youth leader; Mrs. R. B. Hearne, adult club leader; Mrs. Mike Peroni, assistant adult club leader; Tony Denena, Hilda Barron and Mary Salvaggio, program committee. Those attending the meeting from Bryan were: Misses Laura B. Roten and Virginia West, County Agent C. L. Beason and R. W. Persons, assistant state agent in charge of boys' club work, Extension Service, A. and M. College of Texas. After a number of interesting games and contests, Mr. Persons addressed the meeting, calling attention to the great work being done by club members all over the state, pointing to the possibilities of the Steele's Store club, and paying high tribute to Steele's Store people for the splendid record they made on Brazos County Day at the Short Course. John Denena, a second grade pupil, won in the poultry problem which had been given at the Knob Prairie meeting a week before.

HISTORIC LANDMARK BEING PULLED DOWN BY WORKMEN TODAY

The concrete watering trough at the south end of Main Street is today being removed by order of the City Commission. Much interesting history centers around this watering trough. There have been two of the troughs, one of the south and one at the north end of Main Street, and there once were concrete light posts between where the hemispherical markers now stand at street intersections. The troughs were put there through the agency of the Civic Improvement League assisted by the Commercial Club about some fifteen years ago. The Civic Improvement League became the Woman's Club. The watering troughs were erected for the benefit of thirsty horses. About 150 perch and catfish were today recovered and transferred to the watering trough at the north end of the street.

Prior to the time Main street was paved there were one or more underground cisterns in the street which the Fire Department depended on for water in case of fire in the business district. One of these cisterns lay between Tyler Haswell's Book Store and the First National Bank. About the time that Main street was paved E. J. Fountain bought the concrete lamp posts which stood in the middle of the street and moved them to the Oak Grove addition to Bryan.

But the horse has been displaced by the automobile, at least on the city streets, and the drinking fountain must go. No longer will the birds bathe themselves in the still waters of the drinking fountain at the south end of Main Street, no longer will dogs whose tongues are hanging out from the summer heat lap their fill at the public fountain, and no longer will tired and thirsty horses quench their thirst at the public watering place, for it constitutes an impediment to the full vision of speeding motorists and progress must not be retarded.

WOULD BETTER HEALTH HELP YOU GET THAT SALARY RAISE

FACE THESE FACTS! Build yourself up! Take a good tonic, say your doctor would advise. Let Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup do for you what this strengthening, nourishing vegetable tonic has accomplished for countless numbers of men and women. Increase your appetite, tone and stimulate your digestion, soothe and nourish the overtaxed nerves, wake up the sluggish liver, gently correct constipation and send purer, healthier blood coursing through your veins.

Business Publicity

By W. L. Harrington

No one today, who is anxious for success neglects publicity. I know perfectly the admiring silence of his friends and the blatant notoriety of his enemies will go on, but he who wishes to succeed must have publicity and the publicity must be active enough to overcome notoriety, the negligence of his friends and still a larger field one that will give him a boost. If the publicity merely counteracts the first two of these he is at a standstill. There is no progress. The publicity has to exceed the ill effects of one and the neglectfulness of the other. We sometimes ask our friends why they don't say a word or two in our favor and they answer us truthfully, "I would if I knew where to say it or I thought you needed it," or "I will the next time I get a chance," but in their satisfaction they forget and we are the sufferers. I have attempted to draw to the attention of you, Mr. Merchant, the results that must necessarily follow from the above two facts. Today I shall attempt to show you that it is absolutely necessary for you, if you want to hold your own, to advertise, for this is the best publicity.

What News Is.
The unusual action of any physician is a news item, a point of interest if you will, and because it is news it is passed by conversation from one to another. The lawyer who is defending or prosecuting a well-known case, whether he wins or loses, it is a matter of news and he, too, finds himself a topic of conversation and his publicity travels from one to another. The newspaper carries the strange and unusual happenings in its columns and gives its thousands of words of publicity because the items about the doctor, lawyer, school teacher and minister are news. But the merchant is not a news item. He is far from it and because he is not a news item he can not rightfully claim the free publicity which the news item gives to the professional man. He must pay for his publicity or he must pay in a diminishing purse for his lack of publicity. To be sure, he has his choice but the results in either case are fixed, just as the laws of the ancients. It is an absolute truism, an axiom, that the man who fails to secure publicity as a merchant is doomed to failure, even though that failure he long drawn out. Mr. Merchant, when a company goes to the wall, and you have known several, the man was broke; he had lived on his stock until there was nothing left but bare shelves, and his reputation as a business man went with his goods. It always seemed strange to me that a merchant who strives in every way to keep abreast of the wishes of the people, to prevent old stock from accumulating, to watch his over-head, should so neglect his one sure of success—publicity. And yet it is true. The merchant will alter the front of his store at great expense. He will put in new fixtures at great expense. He will keep the stock up to date, but the publicity necessary to the success of the business, he cuts down to the last farthing. Why he does this, I have never been able to find out. The most I have ever learned is this: "Of course advertising is necessary, but is so expensive." So are lights, particularly in Bryan, so are rents, particularly in Bryan, and yet you don't wince to pay and you reap a certain reward, but when it comes to advertising, which is your method of publicity, you measure more carefully your space than the old time grocer did the grains of sugar that he let drop into the scales and that is going some.

The Case of Banks.
There is another class of men whose business may not require publicity, yet whose assets give them undoubted use of advertising. I refer particularly to the banks. There is no good project that comes up in a community that the banks do not support or even initiate. Yet I would like to have you look for the advertising of these banks in the local paper. Then turn to the Houston Post or the Dallas News and look at the bank advertising. Now in this community, no man can gain say that the banks are not the most progressive in all this community, and yet as an example to the merchant they neglect this publicity. I am sure it is not niggardliness and I am certain it is overlooking a chance to do good.

One merchant said to me the other day, "I have a tremendous stock here, a stock that is seldom found in a much larger city. I don't think the people of Bryan know all we carry for their convenience." I know they don't. To me that stock is wonderful, the service one you enter the store is splendid, but how should the people of Bryan know how varied is the assortment that he carries. He neglects his most powerful factor, publicity, called advertising. He is not close; he is generous. He is a wonderful business man, but he leaves off, neglects, puts off one of his most powerful points—publicity.

Seclusion Is Stagnation.
If I were ready to give up my hope of progress, I should immediately prevent any publicity on my part, for I would be certain that in a very short time, I and my works would be forgotten, but as long as I hope to live a life of usefulness, I shall want publicity. The merchant is only an individual, just as I am. He needs that publicity more than I do and yet he will not use it or uses it in such a small quantity as to be almost negligible.

The merchant admits he must pay his rent, admits he must take care of his overhead, admits he must buy carefully and with good judgment. All of these things he includes in his budget at the beginning of every year, but the publicity, the advertising which will make it possible for him to pay his budget he cuts down to the very minimum, and only gives grudgingly an ad. When the solicitor talks him out of it. To be sure, people are now spending their cotton money, but are you getting your share of it, Mr. Merchant? Are you getting all that you could get if you had the publicity? I don't believe that you are.

Advertising, publicity, is absolutely as necessary as your rents, lights, windows and stock. This is not just my doctrine, but it has been tried out by the brightest minds in the business world and the amount of space that the great minds are using proves conclusively that the merchant needs publicity, that the wide-awake business man must have advertising, cost what it may.

PARENT-TEACHERS TO ENLIST FOR MEMBERS

Bryan Parent-Teachers association is doing a work for the schools and the school children of this city that is appreciated by all citizens who take time to investigate their work and think upon the vital importance of the program of effort being put forth by this organization. The East and West side associations are at this time trying to arouse more interest in the association's work among the parents of the children, and thereby, not only bring about a permanent membership which will give strength to the organization, but at the same time bring to parents a first-hand knowledge of just what their children are doing in school. To know the teachers, to be familiar with the study program, to acquaint one's self with the environment in the schools, will make more ambitious children and more active parents, and therefore a greater Parent-Teachers association. When the membership committee call, let us as parents and patrons feel it a privilege to enroll as members and help in the Parent-Teachers Association.

Every father and mother who has a child in school, automatically becomes a member of the Parents Teachers association. In order to be able to put over special programs of work, the association asks for a membership fee of fifty cents, and those who pay are called paid members yet all are welcome. The Parent-Teachers association is today considered a part of the school organization, and functions as such.

(From Friday's Daily)
On Thursday afternoon the Extension Service Club was entertained in the home of Mrs. Geo. W. Barnes on College Avenue. Mrs. John T. Egan and Mrs. Dale Weddington acting as joint hostesses.

Twenty-three members responded to roll call. After the usual business session Mrs. G. W. Crawford took charge of the meeting and led a splendid program on "Preparations for Citizenship." Mrs. Crawford was assisted by Mrs. S. C. Evans who conducted a questionnaire based on organization, policies and conditions in the public schools. At the close of the program a second roll call was answered with "Your choice for the next president of the United States and why?" The choices and reasons all proved most interesting, and incidentally not one time was party allegiance or religion introduced into the discussion. Indeed were this discussion indicative of our national attitude toward future presidents, the aspirants to that office will need to exceed in greatness any political party or religious creed.

A social hour followed during which a salad course with coffee was served by the hostesses in charge. Individual hand-tinted favors suggestive of Thanksgiving added a charm to the attractive salad plates. MRS. M. R. BENTLEY, Reporter.

That Bryan is known far and wide for its progressiveness is demonstrated by the many calls that come from all parts of the state asking for Secretary Sam E. Eberstadt of the Chamber of Commerce to come and explain the "Bryan Plan". Just this week President Henry Sparks of the Cooper Chamber of Commerce phoned, wired and wrote letters to Secretary Eberstadt, extending him an invitation to attend their Chamber of Commerce or Boosters Day on Tuesday, November 20th, and wanted him to explain the Bryan Plan of Chamber of Commerce and Building and Loan Association. Secretary Eberstadt answered immediately and declined the invitation stating that he never leaves Bryan on Tuesday, as that is directors meeting day of his organization. Believing that Bryan has something worthwhile Mr. Sparks would not take no for an answer, but changed the time of meeting for Friday, November 23rd or any date to suit the convenience of Mr. Eberstadt.

Eberstadt Accepts.
Secretary Eberstadt in the absence of President Gordon, submitted the invitation to Vice President E. E. McAdams, who instructed the secretary to accept the invitation, which he did and from the program received by the Eagle one can see that Mr. Eberstadt has a full day of it. The program as given: Friday noon, directors luncheon where Eberstadt will explain the by-laws and constitution and how his directors function. 2 p. m. to 3 p. m., talk on Bryan Plan of Building and Loan Association. 3:45 to 5 to the Federated Woman's Club on "How They Can Assist the Chamber of Commerce." 8 p. m. to 10 p. m. on Bryan Plan of Chamber of Commerce work.

WILD BULLET NEARLY KILLS BRYAN PEOPLE

Death came near to Mr. and Mrs. William Rigby and daughter, Miss Ellen, Sunday night either through accident or the design of some unseen assailant. While the three were driving in their sedan along Ursuline avenue Friday night a bullet entered the car through the rear glass so close to Miss Rigby that the fragments of glass fell on her. Later examination did not reveal the bullet and it could not be determined of what caliber it was. It made a small, round and almost even hole in the glass at the back end of the car.

EVANS FAMILY GIVEN FRIENDLY FAREWELL

(From Monday's Daily)
As a farewell courtesy to Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Evans who are leaving this week to make their future home in Dallas. Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Darrow opened their spacious and attractive home on College boulevard to the members of the Extension Service staff and their families last Sunday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock p. m. After a gracious welcome at the door the guests found an atmosphere of hospitality before the glowing grate fire, in which naught but cheerful companionship and wholesome friendship could flourish.

In the attractive and homelike dining room Mesdames T. O. Walton and A. L. Ward presided over a refreshment table where tea and coffee and wafers were served to all present. Misses Ethel Walton and Lolita Dean Randolph assisted with the serving.

Bidden Good-Bye.

The members of the Extension Service "family" bid Mr. and Mrs. Evans good-bye with deep regret. They have been closely associated with all Extension Service activities "both at home and abroad" ever since that work had its beginning in the State of Texas. In their going the Extension Service loses capable hands; and a host of good wishes go with them into their new home and their new enterprise. The afternoon's pleasure, which was inspired by their loyal friendship, shall long remain a pleasant memory, and will doubtless give rise to a revival of the time-honored custom of keeping "open house" on Sunday afternoon. Particularly does it appeal to a people who are scattered abroad through the work-a-day week, and who though holding a common bond of interest and sympathy seldom have time to enjoy each other in a social way. Mrs. Darrow was assisted in the duties of the afternoon by Mesdames R. R. Lancaster, A. P. Swallow and H. E. Randolph.
